

Understanding Disruptive Behavior

Estimated time to complete: 20 min.

Course Description

SafeSchools' Understanding Disruptive Behavior course will help school staff members identify and understand the most common causes of disruptive behavior by students. The goal of this course is to provide an overview of the principles used to identify and categorize student misbehaviors. It is the first of a two-part series exploring the challenges posed by disruptive behavior. Both are authored by Dr. Randy Sprick, one of America's leading experts in school discipline. The second course – Managing Disruptive Behavior – should be completed following this course.

Common Themes

This course reviews the following topics related to understanding disruptive behavior:

- Identifying the three categories of student misbehavior
- Examining the four categories of chronic student misbehavior
- Discussing the importance of analyzing the causes of chronic misbehavior and developing an effective intervention plan

Author

Dr. Randy Sprick is an educational consultant and teacher trainer. He conducts workshops helping school staff set up classrooms that encourage responsibility and motivation, while effectively helping students learn to behave in more responsible ways.

Training Environments

SafeSchools is ideal for a blended learning environment, complementing in-service or video training, or as a stand-alone training course. The SafeSchools approach engages the learner in an e-learning environment; while a Compliance Management System automatically tracks his/her progress through the courses. This assists the district administrator or training coordinator in demonstrating compliance.
